Founded by self-taught, award-winning winemaker Dominick Chirichillo and his wife Gloria, Domenico Winery and Vineyards embraces the Italian heritage and the tradition of family winemaking. Dominick was introduced to these traditions when he was just two years old by his grandfather, Domenico Giovinazzo, in Staten Island, New York. Instructed with a winepress in his grandfather's basement, the legacy of handcrafting wine was passed down from one generation to another and Dominick made wines for his family and friends for many years. His passion for winemaking lead him to develop the Bacchus Winemaking Club to help other home winemakers create their own wines with custom labels. The company was so successful that in just ten years it expanded to five different clubs with over 200,000 cases made by amateur winemakers across the country. In 1997, Dominick and his wife decided to pursue a winery of their own and moved to California in order to be closer to the grapes they desired. After looking closely at California wine country, the Chirichillos selected San Carlos for their winery location since it was conveniently located in the middle of Silicon Valley. Dominick planted his first vines in Amador County in 2002 and released the first Domenico wines in 2005 to rave reviews. Today, Domenico Winery also sources grapes from Napa Valley, Alexander Valley, Russian River Valley, and Lodi, and has garnered over 300 medals for its wines!

ACCOLADES & TASTING NOTES

Domenico's 2006 Aglianico was produced from the winery's Sutter Creek Vineyard in Amador County, California. Aglianico is an Italian varietal, mostly grown in the Basilicata and Campania regions of Italy, with limited plantings recently developed in parts of California and Australia. Its deep garnet color, rich, full bodied style, and pronounced fruit flavors make it full of aging potential and a wonderful choice for pairing with food. Domenico has crafted a robust wine with their 2006 Aglianico, bursting with aromas and flavors of cherry cola and black currant, with barrel spice lingering in the background. This Aglianico is a perfect match with rich meats such as lamb or heavily marbled rib-eye steaks. Also one of the winery's most highly awarded offerings, the 2006 Aglianico has garnered a Platinum Medal at the Critic's Challenge, a Double Gold Medal at the National Women's Wine Competition, a Gold Medal at the San Francisco Chronicle Wine Competition, and a Gold Medal at the Best of Appellation America Competition. Aged 11 months in oak. 100% Aglianico. Enjoy now until 2016.
