CHAMPAGNE LANGLET Millésime 2009 Extra-Brut

Exclusive, Direct-Import from France. Available Only Through Gold Medal Wine Club.

Cheers! It's time again for our celebrated Annual Champagne Special Feature! We are pleased to offer yet another exclusively imported, incredible selection - this year from France's esteemed Champagne Langlet, a progressive and ultra-modern new Champagne house located in the village of Gland on the right bank of France's Marne Valley.

A region firmly rooted in establishment and century-old traditions, the majority of sparkling wines from the renowned region of Champagne, France remain under the control of big-name Champagne houses and sell at equally hefty prices. The three men behind Champagne Langlet aim to change all that, offering a range of premium quality sparkling wines full of personality and value. Vincent Métivier, Frédéric Papelard and Luc Chaudron are each wine-growers and vineyard owners in their own right, but have come together to create something truly unique, built on tradition, collaboration, and serendipity.

The logo of Champagne Langlet honors the legend of the donkey, Martin, that is said to have 'invented' pruning. The story goes that the monk Saint Martin was walking his donkey through the hills of Touraine and stopped for a rest. The donkey, left to his own devices, feasted on the surrounding vineyards and ate down the leafy plants to the stem. The monks were furious and worried what would become of their wine, but come harvest time, they were blessed with a beautiful surprise - plump, savory bunches of grapes that produced a wine so wonderful that the donkey's 'pruning' technique was adopted by the growers. The donkey was baptized as 'Martin' and now graces the Champagne Langlet bottles, as a celebration of fortuitous coincidences.

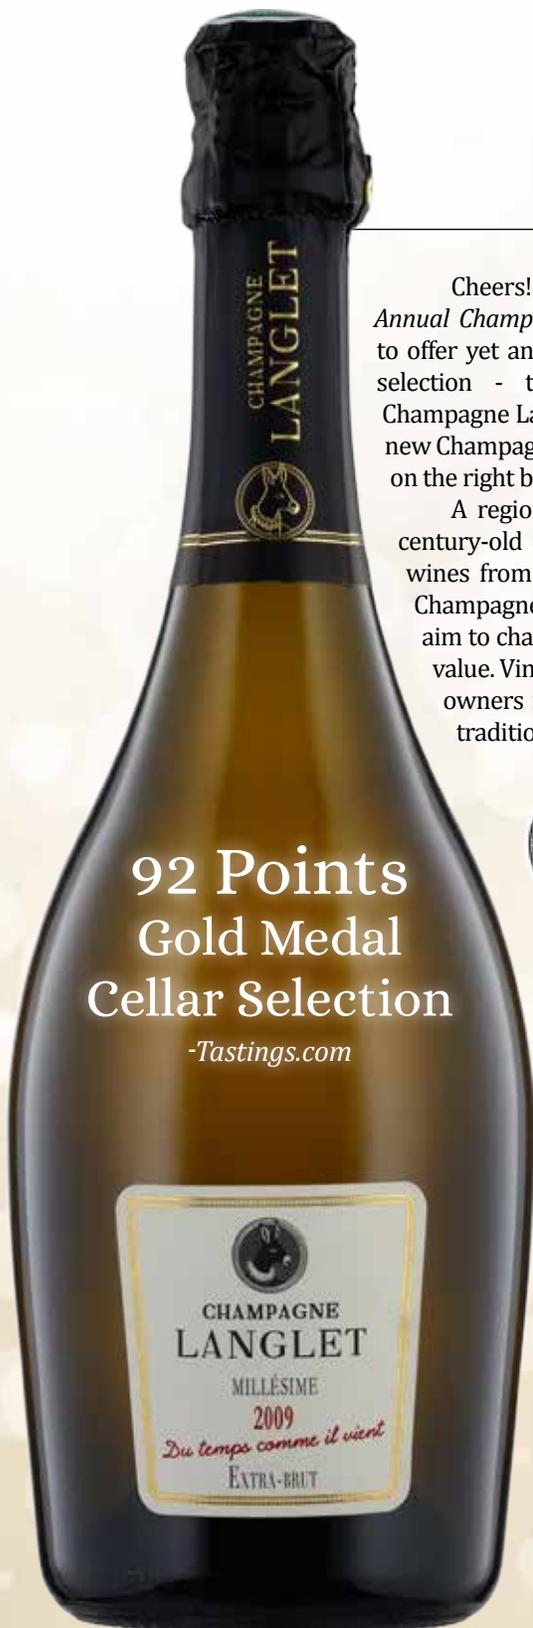

The Champagne Langlet Millésime 2009 Extra Brut offers aromas of brioche, apple compote, white cherry, spice and quince, that complement the satiny, vibrant, and spritzy palate with sprightly flavors of golden apples, pineapple, and just a touch of oak on the finish. The Langlet Champagne is the perfect choice for any celebration or serendipitous event! Enjoy!
