Paix Sur Terre Wines

Owners: Ryan & Nicole Pease, Winemaker: Ryan Pease

Location: Paso Robles

Founded in 2010 by Ryan and Nicole Pease, Paix Sur Terre (French for 'Peace on Earth') is a completely unique winery venture based in Paso Robles on California's Central Coast. The winery is dedicated to producing Mourvedre-based wines along with small lots of Syrah, Grenache, and Mediterranean-style whites from carefully selected vineyards on the west side of Paso Robles. Mourvedre is Ryan and Nicole's favorite varietal, so when they decided to start their own label, it only seemed natural to make the varietal they are in love with. It's even more fitting that no one else in Paso Robles is focusing on Mourvedre.

Ryan Pease got his start in the wine industry while attending Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo. A part time tasting room position at Linne Calodo opened his eyes to the world of wine and he realized the wine business was something he wanted to be a part of. He has since gained harvest, cellar and winemaking experience at Linne Calodo, Epoch Estate, Grey Wolf, and Lone Madrone. Aside from Paix Sur Terre, Ryan currently makes wine for Grey Wolf, Four Lanterns and William Robert Wines. Ryan's wife Nicole also works in the wine business as operations manager for McPrice Myers Winery, where she manages all aspects of daily operations. Together, Ryan and Nicole are the sole employees of Paix Sur Terre.

Paix Sur Terre sources fruit from Glenrose Vineyard, Alta Colina Vineyard and La Vista Vineyard - all three with stunning sites and highly dedicated owners who pursue growing some of the best fruit in Paso Robles. Each vineyard has different soil types with different varietal selections, allowing plenty of blending opportunities in the Paix Sur Terre cellar. The soils, vineyards, and climate in Paso Robles are some of the best in the world for growing Rhone varietals, and the Peases are excited to be at the forefront of the region's discovery. They have garnered some serious critical acclaim for their efforts with Paix Sur Terre and they hope to continue building the winery into a successful, reputable brand.

The labels for Paix Sur Terre, by the way, are created by friend and abstract artist Jon Blythe. He creates a new piece of art for each Paix Sur Terre wine, helping the winery stand out among the crowd and showing how distinctive each bottling is.

Paix Sur Terre 2015 Songs of it's Own

Glenrose Vineyard, Paso Robles

Paix Sur Terre's 2015 Songs of its Own is the brand's most refreshing and approachable red blend, comprised of 58% Mourvedre, 22% Grenache, 17% Syrah, and 3% Cinsault. The higher amount of Mourvedre brings more earth tones to the wine, while the Grenache offers sweet red fruit notes that are nicely complemented by the Syrah's dark fruit and violet nuances. The touch of Cinsault adds delicate floral and fresh strawberry notes to the aromatic nose. Songs of it's Own is a beautifully balanced wine with mouthwatering, savory, and mineral qualities. Aged 14 months in oak. Enjoy now until 2025.
